The SEAD Fund invites small community groups and individuals to apply for funds to run or kick-start campaign activity that engages with people, has a demonstrable impact, and aims to links local issues with those being experienced by others around the world.

More details will be announced soon. We are particularly interested in applications that focus campaign activity on the following areas: women’s rights, young people and their global rights, climate justice, inequality, poverty and health justice.

What we fund

POPPINS regular weight size 48

SEAD Fund grants are small grants for individuals or groups. Grants are typically £100 - £250. We fund positive action, and campaigning. We look for proposals where the grant will have the most impact -- for example, helping a new campaign to get started, or funding a specific concrete action for a local community. We do not normally fund travel, e.g. to visit a conference. We promote social justice, with a current focus on the following areas:

HEALTH JUSTICE
